

Modals of Deduction – Present & Future

1. Susan is behaving in a very unusual way.

- A. I think she must be taking drugs again.
- B. I think she might be taking drugs again.
- C. I think she may take drugs again.
- D. I think she must take drugs again

2. Maybe, the bus is late.

- A. The bus mustn't be late.
- B. The bus may be late.
- C. The bus can be late.
- D. The bus must be late.

3. He seems he doesn't understand it.

- A. He may not understand it.
- B. He can't understand it.
- C. He mustn't understand it.
- D. He should understand it.

4. He wears an old coat and well-worn shoes.

- A. He shouldn't have much money.
- B. He couldn't have much money.
- C. He mustn't have much money.
- D. He can't have much money.

5. It can't be Jane. She's left for Australia.

- A. You may confuse her for someone else.
- B. You can confuse her for someone else.
- C. You must be confusing her for someone else.
- D. You may be confusing her for someone else.

6. He is grey and bald.

- A. He can't be over fifty.
- B. He may be over fifty.
- C. He should be over fifty.
- D. He must be over fifty.

7. Perhaps, he's working abroad.

- A. He might be working abroad.
- B. He may work abroad.
- C. He may working abroad.
- D. He should be working abroad.

8. I don't think he's right.

- A. He shouldn't be right.
- B. He may be right.
- C. He can't be right.
- D. He mustn't be right.

9. You've been working all day. I'm sure you're feeling tired.

- A. You can feel tired.
- B. You should feel tired.
- C. You must feel tired.
- D. You must be feeling tired.

10. Maybe, he will call later.

- A. He may call later.
- B. He must call later.
- C. He might be calling later.
- D. He should call later.